

Jay Harris - Biography

Jay Harris is a member of Cowessess First Nation in Saskatchewan. He is presently a non-licensed nuclear operator at Bruce Power in Ontario. Jay was once a technician in the Canadian Airforce, a Regular member (Constable) of the RCMP, and worked as a consultant and contract investigator for First Nations in Manitoba, and Ontario. Jay led the most northern police investigation in Canadian history in 2001 within 90 miles of the geographic North Pole to recover a deceased Japanese national while serving in Resolute Bay, Nunavut. Jay is presently working on his B.Sc. at Bismark State University in Applied Nuclear Sciences. He is a particularly keen disciple of nuclear energy for humanity.